Out of respect to the entire Manhattan School of Music community, the school requires that all cell phones and all other electronic devices that emit sound be turned off while in offices or the library and during all classes, rehearsals, performances, and school events. If an electronic device needs to be in operation, it must be switched to the vibrating or silent alert mode. When answering a phone in an approved area, please be courteous to others by speaking as softly as possible, by limiting the duration of the call, and by taking the call outside. Cell phones are not to be used while in class, rehearsal, or performance for any reason unless expressly required by an MSM Faculty member. Security, Faculty, Staff, and any school official reserve the right to confiscate any devices that unnecessarily interrupt any activity.
