The success of our alumni speaks to the high quality music education Manhattan School of Music provides. Accomplished, award-winning alumni are working at the highest levels of musical, educational, cultural, and professional worlds. They are soloists on the stages of the great concert halls and opera houses of the world, play in major orchestras internationally, lead important music organizations, and are faculty members training the next generation of artists. Many have made distinguished careers outside of music.

"I am tremendously grateful to the opera program at Manhattan School of Music. It rooted me in the confidence for sharing my gifts and performing on a stage of any size. It is very important for a young singer to feel comfortable in finding and expressing themselves, and MSM's opera program grants that space and opportunity!"
